

SIGNS OF ABUSE

If you're afraid of your partner, that's a big red flag. You may be scared to say what you think, to bring up certain topics, or to say no to sex. No matter the reason, fear has no place in a healthy relationship. If you feel like you're being abused, there's a good chance you may be, and it's worth getting help. Keep that in mind as you think about these signs:

- Your partner bullies, threatens, or controls you
- Your partner looks through your cell phone--monitoring calls, messages, and social media
- Your partner controls your money
- Your partner cuts you off from family and friends
- Your partner physically abuses you
- Your partner sexually abuses you
